WRITTEN OPINION OF THE
INTERNATIONAL SEARCHING AUTHORITY

International application No.

PCT/JP2004/012994

Box No. I

Basis of this opinion

1. With regard to the language, this opinion has been established on the basis of the international application in the language in which it was filed, unless otherwise indicated under this item.
☐ This opinion has been established on the basis of a translation from the original language into the following language _____, which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (under Rule 12.3 and 23.1(b)).
2. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed invention, this opinion has been established on the basis of:
 - a. type of material
☐ a sequence listing
☐ table(s) related to the sequence listing
 - b. format of material
☐ in written format
☐ in computer readable form
 - c. time of filing/furnishing
☐ contained in the international application as filed.
☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority for the purposes of search.
3. ☐ In addition, in the case that more than one version or copy of a sequence listing and/or table(s) relating thereto has been filed or furnished, the required statements that the information in the subsequent or additional copies is identical to that in the application as filed or does not go beyond the application as filed, as appropriate, were furnished.
4. Additional comments:

Box No. IV Lack of unity of invention

1. ☐ In response to the invitation (Form PCT/ISA/206) to pay additional fees the applicant has:
- ☐ paid additional fees
- ☐ paid additional fees under protest
- ☐ not paid additional fees

2. ☒ This Authority found that the requirement of unity of invention is not complied with and chose not to invite the applicant to pay additional fees.

3. This Authority considers that the requirement of unity of invention in accordance with Rules 13.1, 13.2 and 13.3 is

- ☐ complied with
- ☒ not complied with for the following reasons:

The common subject matter of claims 1-8 is "a developing device comprising a stirring roller having stirring blades for stirring a developer, a developing roller for transferring the developer to an electrostatic latent image, a control member for controlling the amount of developer transferred from the developing roller to the electrostatic latent image, and a reflux plate by which the excess developer resulting from control by the controlling member is refluxed to the stirring roller, one end of which is disposed in the vicinity of the outer periphery of the stirring roller."

However, the result of the search revealed that the above constitution is disclosed in document JP 10-198172 A (Fuji Xerox Co., Ltd.), 31 July 1998, and therefore does not possess novelty.

As a result, the above constitution does not go beyond the prior art, and this common subject matter is not a special technical feature in the meaning of the second sentence of PCT Rule 13.2.

Therefore, none of the inventions of claims 1-18 constitute subject matter which is common technical features.

As no other common subject matter exists which could be deemed special technical features in the meaning of the second sentence of PCT Rule 13.2, it is impossible to find a technical relation within the meaning of PCT Rule 13 among these differing inventions.

Therefore, the inventions of claims 1-8 clearly do not comply with the requirement for unity of invention.

4. Consequently, this opinion has been established in respect of the following parts of the international application:

- ☒ all parts
- ☐ the parts relating to claims Nos. _____

Fig. 1 in document 1 describes a lower end of a partition plate is disposed a predetermined distance separated from the stirring roller, and disposing it separated by a predetermined distance is design matter to be appropriately achieved by a person skilled in the art. See the opinion in Box VIII regarding the predetermined distance being the maximum flight distance of the developer. The inventions of claims 3 and 4 do not appear to possess novelty or involve an inventive step, as they are described in Fig. 1 of document 1. The invention of claim 5 does not appear to involve an inventive step over document 1, and document 2 cited in the ISR. It would be easy for a person skilled in the art to apply the angle of repose described in document 2 to the partition plate of the device of document 1. The invention of claim 6 does not appear to possess novelty or involve an inventive step, as it is described in document 1 cited in the ISR.

Box No. VIII Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:

Claim 1 describes a "maximum flight distance of developer due to rotation of the stirring roller," but the specification contains no description of what to consider the range of this distance, and is therefore not sufficiently backed up by the specification. (The maximum flight distance of developer due to rotation of the stirring roller is influenced in various ways by the type of developer, the constitution of the stirring roller, the rotation speed of the stirring roller, and so on.)

Supplemental Box

In case the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient.

Continuation of: Box V

The invention of claim 7 does not appear to involve an inventive step over document 1, and document 3 cited in the ISR. It would be easy for a person skilled in the art to apply the developer of a size described in document 3 to the developing device described in document 1.

The invention of claim 8 does not appear to possess novelty or involve an inventive step, because it is described in document 1.
